

Two-days National Workshop

On

“Data to Dissertation with Qualitative Approaches for Student Projects”

About the College:

Every institution carries a legacy of its own, and the history of Derabis College traces back to the year 1981, when a group of enlightened individuals from the locality formulated establishing a center of higher education in the remote region of Derabish. Inspired by a strong mission and vision, our idea sparked a wave of enthusiasm and commitment among the people, laying the foundation for what would become a vital educational institution. The college's location is notably accessible situated at the heart of Derabish, just 3 kilometers from Chhata Chhak on NH-5(A), 7 kilometers from Cuttack-Chandabali Road, 70 kilometers from Cuttack via Chandikhol, and 55 kilometers from Cuttack via Salepur.

About the Workshop:

This workshop is designed to guide students through the essential stages of conducting qualitative research, from data collection to dissertation writing. It aims to equip participants with practical tools and methodological insights for designing and executing research based on interviews, observations, case studies, and content analysis. By exploring techniques such as thematic analysis, coding, and interpretation, the workshop will help students transform raw qualitative data into meaningful academic narratives. This workshop is especially beneficial for students and faculty in the humanities, social sciences, and education, where understanding human behavior, experience, and social context is critical. Through interactive discussions and hands-on activities, students and faculty will gain the confidence and skills necessary to craft a coherent and compelling dissertation rooted in qualitative inquiry.

The objective of the Workshop

1. To familiarize participants with key qualitative research methodologies and data collection techniques essential for academic research.
2. To develop participants' skills in analyzing and transforming qualitative data into well structured and meaningful dissertations.
